

German submarine warfare

Type de contenu : Texte

Type de médiation : sans médiation

Type de support : Volume

Titre(s) : German submarine warfare : a study of its methods and spirit : including the crime of the "Lusitania," a record of observations and evidence / by Wesley Frost,... ; with an introduction by Frank Lyon Polk,...

Auteur(s) : Frost, Wesley (1884-1968)

Autre(s) responsabilité(s) : Polk, Frank Lyon (1871-1943) (Préfacier)

Publication : London : Unicorn press, 2018

Description matérielle : 1 vol. (VIII-179 p.) : ill. ; 20 cm

Collection : Uniform legends

ISBN : 978-1-910500-24-8
1-910500-24-0

EAN : 9781910500248

Appartient à la collection : Uniform legends

Classification décimale Dewey : 940.451 2

Note(s) : D'abord publié en 1918

Résumé ou extrait : La 4e de couv. indique : "This book is a record of observations and evidence compiled by the then US Consul in Queenstown, Eire. Contains detailed testimonies of survivors from over fifty vessels attacked and often sunk by German submarines during the Great War. A vivid and accurate picture of the tactics and motives of German submarine warfare is provided in the first part of the book. The second part concentrates on the attack and sinking of RMS Lusitania. Wesley Frost's first consular post came in 1912, when he was named U.S. Consul at Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, Canada. After two years, he was appointed U.S. Consul to Queenstown, near Cork. It was during his service there (1914-17), he coordinated relief operations for the survivors of the Lusitania, torpedoed by a German submarine on May 7, 1915. Many of the interviews used in his book were included as part of his official report to the United States government."

Sujet - Collectivité : Lusitania (paquebot)

Sujet - Nom commun : Guerre mondiale (1914-1918) -- Opérations navales -- Allemagne
Guerre sous-marine