

The fall of the Philippines, 1941-42

Type de contenu : Texte

Type de médiation : sans médiation

Titre(s) : The fall of the Philippines, 1941-42 / Clayton Chun ; illustrated by Howard Gerrard

Auteur(s) : Chun, Clayton K. S.

Autre(s) responsabilité(s) : Gerrard, Howard (Illustrateur)

Editeur, producteur : Oxford : Long Island City (N.Y.) : Osprey publ., cop. 2012

Description matérielle : 1 vol. (96 p.) : ill., cartes ; 25 cm

Collection : Campaign 243

ISBN : 978-1-8490-8609-7
1-8490-8609-5

EAN : 9781849086097 br.

Appartient à la collection : Campaign (Oxford) 1759-4987 243

Classification décimale Dewey : 940.542 599

Note sur la description bibliographique : Notices biographiques des auteurs
Publisher description

Note sur les bibliographies et les index : Bibliogr. p. 94. Chronol. Index

Note sur le contenu : Introduction. Japan and the United States : opposing powers in the Pacific Japanese interests and motivations for war The Philippines : America's Far Eastern outpost Chronology Opposing commanders. US commanders Japanese commanders Opposing forces. US and Philippine forces Imperial Japanese forces Orders of battle Opposing plans. Japan's move to war American defense of the Philippines The battle for the Philippines. Japanese air superiority and the bumbling nincompoops The Japanese invasion of Luzon The Japanese strike south Defending northern Luzon The Lingayen Gulf landings "WPO-3 is in effect" The Japanese strike at Lamon Bay The retreat to Bataan Bataan : the final refuge The Japanese break the Abucay and Mauban lines The Battle for the Points Homma retreats north MacArthur's last stand on Corregidor The final assault and fall of Bataan The Bataan Death March Corregidor falls Southern Philippines operations Final surrender Aftermath The battlefields today

Résumé ou extrait : La 4e de couv. indique : "The Philippine Islands stood in the way of Japanese expansion in the Pacific, and were therefore an immediate target when war broke out in December 1941. Defended by a mixed Filipino-American force under the flamboyant Douglas MacArthur, the islands were hit by surprise Japanese aerial attacks that all but wiped out the American air forces in the Philippines. An amphibious assault followed. Despite desperate attempts by the US and Philippine armies, they were unable to halt the Japanese advance and Manila was lost with the beleaguered defenders retreating to Bataan and Corregidor. Here they made their last stand on May 9, 1942. Although the campaign ended in an American defeat, and for the US prisoners of war the horrors of the Bataan Death March and years in Japanese captivity, the heroic defense had inspired the Americans to return in 1944."

Sujet - Nom commun : Guerre mondiale (1939-1945) -- Campagnes et batailles -- Philippines

Guerre mondiale (1939-1945) -- Philippines -- Opérations aériennes

Guerre mondiale (1939-1945) -- Philippines -- Opérations amphibies