

War and violence

Type de contenu : Texte

Type de médiation : sans médiation

Type de support : Volume

Titre(s) : War and violence / Maurizio Lazzarato ; translated from French by Cédrine Michel ; edited by Max Jorge Hinderer Cruz

Auteur(s) : Lazzarato, Maurizio

Autre(s) auteur(s) : Michel, Cédrine

Autre(s) responsabilité(s) : Hinderer, Max Jorge (1980-....) (Éditeur scientifique)

Publication : Vienna [etc.] : Transversal texts, 2023

Description matérielle : 1 vol. (34 p.) ; 16 cm

Collection : Dekoloniales Studienprogramm = Decolonial studies program

ISBN : 978-3-9030-4642-9
3-903046-42-6

EAN : 9783903046429

Appartient à la collection : Dekoloniales Studienprogramm = decolonial studies program

Classification décimale Dewey : 303.66
330.122 01

Note sur les bibliographies et les index : Bibliogr. p. 32

Résumé ou extrait : It is not sufficient to speak of violence alone: sexual violence, racial violence, the violence of exploitation. In capitalism Maurizio Lazzarato writes production, whether material or immaterial, affective or desiring, always presupposes the extra-economic, extra-affective, extra-cognitive production of social classes. For production, there must be class; and to produce class, there must be a war of subjugation. For a long time, war no longer seemed to be part of political debates it seemed merely a phenomenon from the past or the fate of distant countries on the planet. In his essay War and Violence post-operaist philosopher Maurizio Lazzarato talks about the permanent continuity of warlike violence, its relation to the beginning of capitalist cycles of accumulation, and the production of subjectivity.

Sujet - Nom commun : Libéralisme économique

Guerre -- Philosophie

Guerre -- Aspect économique

Capitalisme

Lutte des classes