

Notice pdf - Reluctant remilitarisation

Type de contenu : Texte

Type de médiation : sans médiation

Type de support : Volume

Titre(s) : Reluctant remilitarisation : transforming the armed forces in Germany, Italy and Japan after the cold war / Fabrizio Coticchia, Matteo Dian and Francesco Niccolo Moro

Auteur(s) : Coticchia, Fabrizio

Autre(s) auteur(s) : Dian, Matteo
Moro, Francesco N.

Publication : Edinburgh : Edinburgh University press

Description matérielle : 1 vol. (IX-243 p.) : ill. ; 24 cm

ISBN : 1-4744-6727-X
978-1-4744-6727-8

EAN : 9781474467278 rel.

Classification décimale Dewey : 355.033 004

Note sur les bibliographies et les index : Bibliogr. p. [215]-235. Notes bibliogr. Index

Résumé ou extrait : While armed forces in several countries underwent deep transformations after the end of the Cold War, few if any, however, experiences more radical changes than Germany and Italy, and Japan. The book explores how the three countries modified posture and structure of their militaries over the past three decades. While the three countries all had to overcome a pacifist constitution, a widespread view - in both elites and public opinion - that that war was a taboo, and armed forces designed to defend and deter against large-scale threats, they all became more active security providers over the last decades. Each country followed a distinct path, though. The book reconstructs these paths, trying to show how a mix of external and domestic factors affected the pace and the extent of transformations. The book also identifies critical junctures in such process: any push to change - it is argued - is mediated by the need to come to terms with the cumbersome weight of the past.

Sujet - Nom commun : Remilitarisation -- Allemagne
Remilitarisation -- Italie
Remilitarisation -- Japon
Forces armées allemandes -- 20e siècle

Forces armées allemandes -- 2000-....

Forces armées italiennes -- 20e siècle

Forces armées italiennes -- 2000-....

Forces armées japonaises -- 20e siècle

Forces armées japonaises -- 2000-....

Forme, genre ou caractéristiques physiques : Études comparatives