

Bat & bird bombers : at the outset of World War II, innovative plans were laid to send some talented fliers to the front lines

Titre(s) : Bat & bird bombers : at the outset of World War II, innovative plans were laid to send some talented fliers to the front lines

Ensemble : AVIATION HISTORY n° 5 Vol. 15 10768858 01/05/2005

Auteur(s) : GLINES Carroll V.

Adresse bibliographique : 2005

Description matérielle : 38-44 p. : noir et blanc

Résumé ou extrait : The United States was engaged in a number of secret aviation projects during WWII, one of them American fliers that were being trained to attack enemy forces and die in the process, Kamikaze style. However, these fliers were not humans but common bats and pigeons, drafted to make surprise bombing raids on enemy forces.

Sujet(s) : ÉTATS-UNIS D'AMÉRIQUE
SECONDE GUERRE MONDIALE
COLOMBOPHILIE