

A dangerous world ?

Type de contenu : Texte

Type de médiation : sans médiation

Titre(s) : A dangerous world ? : threat perception and U.S. national security / edited by Christopher Preble and John Mueller

Autre(s) responsabilité(s) : Preble, Christopher A. (19.-.....) (Éditeur scientifique)
Mueller, John E. (Éditeur scientifique)

Editeur, producteur : Washington : Cato institute, cop. 2014

Description matérielle : 1 vol. (VI-390 p.) : cartes, graph. ; 23 cm

ISBN : 1-939709-40-7
978-1-939709-40-0

EAN : 9781939709400 br.

Autre variante du titre : [Threat perception and U.S. national security.]

Classification décimale Dewey : 355.033 073

Note sur les bibliographies et les index : Notes bibliogr. Index

Note sur le contenu : How dangerous ? History and nuclear alarmism / Francis J. Gavin Nuclear alarmism : proliferation and terrorism / John Mueller China's putative threat to U.S. national security / Lyle J. Goldstein The American perception of substate threats / Paul R. Pillar The management of savagery : policy options for confronting substate threats / Austin Long Transnational crime as a security threat : myths, misconceptions, and historical lessons / Peter Andreas Dealing with cyberattacks / Martin Libicki Climate change and national security : balancing the costs and benefits / Mark G. Stewart It's coming from inside the house / Michael A. Cohen Human security in the United States / Stephanie Rugolo Bucks for the bang ? Assessing the economic returns to military primacy / Daniel W. Drezner Assessing the "threat" of international tension to the U.S. economy / Eugene Gholtz It's a commons misunderstanding : the limited threat to American command of the commons / Joshua R. Itzkowitz Shifrinson and Sameer Lalwani Security threats in contemporary world politics : potential hegemony, partnerships, and primacy / Brendan Rittenhouse Green Delusions of danger : geopolitical fear and indispensability in U.S. foreign policy / Christopher J. Fettweis Alarums and excursions : explaining threat inflation in U.S. foreign policy / Benjamin H. Friedman

Sujet - Nom commun : Sécurité nationale -- États-Unis
Menaces -- États-Unis