

The case for peace

Type de contenu : Texte

Type de médiation : sans médiation

Titre(s) : The case for peace : how the Arab-Israeli conflict can be resolved / Alan Dershowitz

Traduit sous le titre : Le dossier de la paix

Auteur(s) : Dershowitz, Alan M.

Editeur, producteur : Hoboken, N.J. : John Wiley, cop. 2005

Description matérielle : 1 vol. (IX-246 p.) : cartes ; 24 cm

ISBN : 0-471-74317-8

978-0-471-74317-0

Classification décimale Dewey : 956.940 54

Note sur les bibliographies et les index : Notes bibliogr. Index

Note sur le contenu : Introduction : The case for peace [Part 1 : Overcoming the geopolitical barriers to peace] The end result : two states with secure and recognized borders Is the one-state solution a barrier to peace? Is a non-contiguous Palestinian state a barrier to peace? Can peace be achieved without compromising rights? Is the division of Jerusalem a barrier to peace? Are the informal Geneva accords a basis for or a barrier to peace? Can Israel make peace and prevent terrorism at the same time? Are Israeli counter-terrorism measures the cause of suicide bombings and a barrier to peace? What if a Palestinian state became a launching pad for terrorism? Will civil wars be necessary to bring about peace? Is the security fence a barrier to peace? Is a militarized Palestine a barrier to peace? Is the Iranian nuclear threat a barrier to peace? [Part 2 : Overcoming the hatred barriers to peace] More Palestinian than the Palestinians More Israeli than the Israelis A case study in hate and intimidation Will anti-semitism decrease as Israel moves toward peace with the Palestinians? Conclusion : The contributions peace can make

Sujet - Nom commun : Processus de paix

Conflit israélo-arabe -- 1993-.... -- Paix

Relations Juifs-Arabes

Terrorisme -- Lutte contre -- Israël

Politique et gouvernement -- Israël -- 1993-....