

The Changing character of war and peacemaking

Type de contenu : Texte

Type de médiation : sans médiation

Type de support : Volume

Titre(s) : The Changing character of war and peacemaking : papers from the 2023 Conference on the resolution of intractable conflict (CRIC 2023) held at Harris Manchester College, University of Oxford, from 18th-20th September 2023 / [editors], John Alderdice and Padraig O'Malley

Auteur(s) : Alderdice, John (19..-....)

Autre(s) auteur(s) : O'Malley, Padraig
Conference on the resolution of intractable conflict 2023 Oxford, GB

Publication : [United States] : ARTIS (Europe) Ltd

Date de copyright : C 2024

Description matérielle : 1 volume (XXVI-218 pages) : illustrations, cartes, graphiques, tableaux ; 26 cm

ISBN : 978-1-80541-638-8

EAN : 9781805416388 broché

Classification décimale Dewey : 355.009

Note sur l'édition et l'histoire bibliographique : D'abord publié dans la revue "the new England journal of public policy", vol. 36, issue 1, 2024

Note sur les bibliographies et les index : Notes bibliographiques

Résumé ou extrait : Geo-politics shifted dramatically with the Russian invasion of Ukraine in February 2022. This major escalation of the Russo-Ukrainian War, which had started in 2014, drew in the United States, most of Western Europe, and their allies around the world. Meantime, Russia strengthened its ties with China, North Korea, Iran, and others in Asia and the Global South. There was a resultant split in the UN Security Council and deepening global division along the lines of prior conflicts in Asia, Africa, and the Middle East. The belief that large scale warfare between developed states had been consigned to history vanished with the return of trench and tank warfare reminiscent of the First World War, and this combined with the newer technologies of drones, cyber, and artificial intelligence. The nature of war remains the same - one side tries to force its will on another which resists with reciprocal military force - but the character of war is changing dramatically. The character of peace-making is being forced to adapt to the new situation. International structures that facilitated negotiations are dissolving and those who sought to lead through resolving conflicts have been replaced by those who lead in conducting conflicts. The 10th Annual Conference on the Resolution of Intractable Conflict held at Oxford University in September 2023 drew experts from across the globe to address The Changing Character of War and Peacemaking and in this book the New England Journal of Public Policy and ARTIS Europe Ltd have published the best papers from that meeting.

Sujet - Nom commun : Histoire militaire -- 20e siècle

Histoire militaire -- 21e siècle

Maintien de la paix -- 20e siècle

Maintien de la paix -- 2000-....

Forme, genre ou caractéristiques physiques : Actes de congrès