

Necessary heresies

Type de contenu : Texte

Type de médiation : sans médiation

Type de support : Volume

Titre(s) : Necessary heresies : challenging the narratives distorting contemporary UK defence / edited by Justin Bronk and Jack Watling

Auteur(s) : Bronk, Justin

Autre(s) auteur(s) : Watling, Jack

Publication : London : Royal United Services Institute for defence and security studies : Routledge journals, 2021

Description matérielle : 1 vol. (104 p.) ; 24 cm

Collection : Whitehall paper 99

ISBN : 1-03-226667-8
978-1-03-226667-1

EAN : 9781032266671 br.

Appartient à la collection : Whitehall papers 0268-1307 99

Classification décimale Dewey : 355.033 041

Note sur les bibliographies et les index : Notes bibliogr.

Note sur le contenu : Introduction / Justin Bronk and Jack Watling The slow and imprecise art of cyber warfare / Justin Bronk and Jack Watling The grey zone is defined by the defender / Sidharth Kaushal Doing less with less in the land domain / Nick Reynolds Swarming munitions, UAVs and the myth of cheap mass / Justin Bronk The lights may go out, but the band plays on / Peter Roberts In space, no one will see you fight / Alexandra Stickings More sensors than sense / Jack Watling. Conclusion / Justin Bronk and Jack Watling

Résumé ou extrait : La 4e de couv. indique : "Emerging technologies are changing how militaries are structured and how they will fight in the future. However, many of the interpretations currently dominating the discourse in UK Defence about how these technologies and supposedly novel adversary activities will shape the future operating environment are provably false. Necessary Heresies is an attempt to correct some of these misleading narratives before they drive acquisition and force-design decisions that undermine the British Armed Forces."

Sujet - Nom commun : Sécurité nationale -- Grande-Bretagne
Art et science militaires -- Innovations technologiques