

Command responsibility

Type de contenu : Texte

Type de médiation : sans médiation

Type de support : Volume

Titre(s) : Command responsibility : holding military leaders accountable for their troops / James B. Whisker and Kevin R. Spiker, Jr

Auteur(s) : Whisker, James Biser (1939-....)

Autre(s) auteur(s) : Spiker, Kevin R.

Publication : Washington London : Academica press, 2020

Description matérielle : 1 vol. (VIII-260 p.) ; 24 cm

ISBN : 978-1-68053-133-6
1-68053-133-6

EAN : 9781680531336 rel.

Classification décimale Dewey : 341.69

Note sur les bibliographies et les index : Bibliogr. p. [247]-254. Index

Résumé ou extrait : La jaquette indique : "Command responsibility, or executive accountability, assumes that leaders are responsible for the actions of their subordinates. If subordinates misbehave, violate basic moral laws, transgress international law, or thwart international standards of behavior, their leader may be called before to justice. Standards that set the boundaries of human action have been evolving for many millennia, with some degree of precision arriving after the post-World War II international war crimes prosecutions. The United Nations and other organizations have helped codify the international law under which commanders may be held responsible. This book explores the factor that have moved civilization closer to a standard approach to rule of law and the accountability of leaders for the actions of those they command."

Sujet - Nom commun : Auteur principal (droit pénal)
Crimes de guerre
Responsabilité pénale (droit international)