'Alone, unarmed and unafraid' : reconnaissance aircrews faced danger on a daily and nightly basis, flying over some of the most heavily defended areas of South and North Vietnnam

Titre(s) : 'Alone, unarmed and unafraid' : reconnaissance aircrews faced danger on a daily and nightly basis, flying over some of the most heavily defended areas of South and North Vietnnam

Ensemble : AVIATION HISTORY n° 1 Vol. 16 10768858 01/09/2005

Auteur(s) : MAYS Terry M.

Adresse bibliographique : 2005

Description matérielle : 46-52 p. : couleur; noir et blanc

Sujet(s) : ÉTATS-UNIS D'AMÉRIQUE
FORCE AÉRIENNE
US AIR FORCE
AVION DE RECONNAISSANCE
F-101 VOODOO (McDonnell)
F-4 PHANTOM II (McDonnell Douglas)
GUERRE DU VIETNAM