

Towards a global consensus against corruption

Type de contenu : Texte

Type de médiation : sans médiation

Type de support : Volume

Titre(s) : Towards a global consensus against corruption : international agreements as products of diffusion and signals of commitment / Mathis Lohaus

Auteur(s) : Lohaus, Mathis

Publication : London New York : Routledge, Taylor & Francis Group, 2019

Description matérielle : 1 vol. (XII-184 p.) : graph., tabl. ; 23 cm

Collection : Routledge global institutions series

ISBN : 978-1-138-58850-9
1-138-58850-4

EAN : 9781138588509 rel.

Appartient à la collection : Routledge global institutions series Abingdon Routledge 20XX- 1 vol.

Classification décimale Dewey : 345.023 23

Note sur les bibliographies et les index : Bibliogr. p. [177]-178. Index

Note de thèses et écrits académiques : Texte remanié de Thesis (Ph. D.) International relations Freie Universität Berlin 2016 Global consensus on corruption? : international organizations, diffusion, and the design of agreements

Résumé ou extrait : Présentation de l'éditeur : "Corruption has long been identified as a governance challenge, yet it took states until the 1990s to adopt binding agreements combating it. While the rapid spread of anti-corruption treaties appears to mark a global consensus, a closer look reveals that not all regional and international organizations move on similar trajectories. This book seeks to explain similarities and differences between international anti-corruption agreements. In this volume Lohaus develops a comprehensive analytical framework to compare international agreements in the areas of prevention, criminalization, jurisdiction, domestic enforcement and international cooperation. Outcomes range from narrow enforcement cooperation to broad commitments that often lack follow-up mechanisms. Lohaus argues that agreements vary because they are designed to signal anti-corruption commitment to different audiences. To demonstrate such different approaches to anti-corruption, he draws on two starkly different cases, the Organization of American States and the African Union. Contributing to debates on decision-making in international organizations, this work showcases how global governance is shaped by processes of diffusion that involve state and non-state actors. The book highlights challenges as well as chances linked to the patchwork of international rules. It will be of great interest to students and scholars of IR theory, global governance, international organizations and regionalism."

Sujet - Collectivité : Convention des Nations Unies contre la corruption

Sujet - Auteur/Titre : Organisation de coopération et de développement économiques -- Convention sur la lutte contre la corruption d'agents publics étrangers dans les transactions commerciales internationales

Sujet - Nom commun : Corruption -- Droit
Corruption -- Lutte contre -- Coopération internationale