

Canada's defence procurement woes

Type de contenu : Texte

Type de médiation : sans médiation

Type de support : Volume

Titre(s) : Canada's defence procurement woes / Jeffrey F. Collins

Auteur(s) : Collins, Jeffrey (1985-....)

Publication : Cham : Palgrave Macmillan

Date de copyright : C 2024

Description matérielle : 1 vol. (XIII-156 p.) : tabl. ; 22 cm

Collection : Canada and international affairs 2523-7195

ISBN : 3-031-46362-5

978-3-0314-6362-4

EAN : 9783031463624 rel.

Appartient à la collection : Canada and international affairs (Print) 2523-7187

Classification décimale Dewey : 355.620 971

Note sur les bibliographies et les index : Bibliogr. p. 135-151. Notes bibliogr. Index

Note sur le contenu : Introduction Chapter 1: How Canada Procures for the Military Chapter 2: "Clearly, we're not competent" - Joint Support Ships Chapter 3: "Delivery Expected as Soon as Possible" - Standard Military Pattern Trucks Chapter 4: "Tortured and Long Delayed" - Fixed-Wing Search and Rescue Airplanes Chapter 5: "A No Fail Mission" - Modernizing the Frigates Conclusion

Résumé ou extrait : "Defence procurement has bedeviled governments in Canada, and indeed around the world, for decades. Jeffrey Collins provides an important contribution to finding a better way forward. A must-read for current and aspiring leaders." - Michael Wernick, Clerk of the Privy Council (2016-2019), Jarislowsky Chair in Public Sector Management, University of Ottawa and author of Governing Canada. "If everyone in the business reads this book, Canada saves billions buying kit and it's instantly the most valuable book ever published." - Dr. Ian Brodie, Professor of Political Science, University of Calgary, Chief of Staff to Prime Minister Stephen Harper (2006-2008) and author of At the Centre of Government. "This well-research and authoritative book takes a commonly misunderstood and often maligned process, sheds light on its many challenges, and offers some potentially pragmatic solutions. It is a "should read" for anyone interested in this important topic; and, a "must read" for government officials, elected representatives and media pundits alike." - Mark Norman, Vice-Admiral, Royal Canadian Navy (Ret'd)

This book challenges the perceived underlying causes and culprits of the ongoing challenges in Canadian defence procurement, arguing that although headlines often put the blame on the political leadership, the defence procurement bureaucracy, ongoing pressures in the defence industry and continuous demands placed on Canada through its alliances also carry a large part of the responsibility. Focusing on four main case studies: the Fixed Wing Search and Rescue Plane, the Joint Support Ships, the Medium Support Vehicle System and the Halifax Class Modernization, the author offers a comparative analysis of how these ongoing procurement efforts were dealt with by different administrations, from Jean Chrétien and Paul Martin to Stephen Harper. Jeffrey F. Collins is Adjunct Professor at the University of Prince Edward Island.

Sujet - Nom commun : Marchés publics -- Canada
Forces armées canadiennes -- Approvisionnement