

War reporting for cowards

Type de contenu : Texte

Type de médiation : sans médiation

Titre(s) : War reporting for cowards / Chris Ayres

Auteur(s) : Ayres, Chris (1975-....)

Editeur, producteur : New York : Grove Press, cop. 2005

Description matérielle : 1 vol. (XII-280 p.) ; 21 cm

ISBN : 0-8021-4256-7

978-0-8021-4256-6

Classification décimale Dewey : 956.705

Résumé ou extrait : Chris Ayres is a small-town boy, a hypochondriac, and a neat freak with an anxiety disorder. A 27-year-old reporter for The Times of London living in Los Angeles, the only thing he cares to be embedded in is celeb-studded after-parties. But somehow, he has a habit of ending up in the wrong place at the wrong time, whether it's a few blocks from the World Trade Center on September 11 or one cubicle over from an anthrax attack at The New York Post. When his boss asks him if he would like to go to Iraq, he doesn't have the guts to say no. This book is the Iraq War--with all of its horrors and absurdities -- through the eyes of a "war virgin" who was there, in the heat of battle, and wishing he were anywhere but. -- From publisher description

Sujet - Nom commun : Guerre d'Irak (2003-2011)

Journalistes -- États-Unis

Forme, genre ou caractéristiques physiques : Biographie