

Airpower leadership

Type de contenu : Texte

Type de médiation : sans médiation

Type de support : Volume

Titre(s) : Airpower leadership : theory and practice / edited by Peter W. Gray and Sebastian Cox

Auteur(s) : Gray, Peter W.

Autre(s) auteur(s) : Cox, Sebastian (1956-....)

Autre(s) responsabilité(s) : Grande-Bretagne - Éditeur scientifique

Publication : London : The Stationery Office Shrivenham : Joint doctrine and concepts Centre [Royal Air Force]

Date de copyright : C 2002

Description matérielle : 1 vol. (XII-302 p.) : ill. ; 21 cm

Titre de couverture : [Air power leadership. theory and practice.]

Classification décimale Dewey : 358.400 941

Note sur les bibliographies et les index : Notes bibliogr. Index

Note sur le contenu : Command in the air Leadership, management and command : the officers' trinity Theories of leadership, an update The three pillars of professional competence : imperatives for air power leaders Can leadership be taught, and if so, how? The development of air power theory From air power to err power : John Boyd and the opponent's situational awareness Colonel (Retd) John A. Warden III : smasher of paradigms? Air power leadership : a study of Sykes and Trenchard Winston Churchill and Sir Charles Portal : their wartime relationship, 1940-1945 Dowding as commander, leader and manager Harris and the Air Ministry Technology, air leadership, and the evolution of American air power Sir Wilfrid Freeman and the British aircraft economy 1936-1945 Douglas Haig and air power

Sujet - Collectivité : Grande-Bretagne Royal Air Force.

Sujet - Nom commun : Puissance aérienne -- Grande-Bretagne
Doctrines militaires -- Grande-Bretagne