Note sur le titre et les responsabilités : Titre complet : Reid's coaster's assistant and seaman's new guide : containing full and accurate directions for navigating the british and Bristol channels, the whole coast of Great Britain and Ireland, the North Sea, Cattegat, Baltic, and Gulf of Finland : with the Northern Navigation, and that of the White Sea. The Sailor, wether outward or homeward bound, is directed through all the Channels, and into every Harbour on the Coasts of these Seas, and is apprized of every known Danger, with Instructions how to avoid it : and he has a plain Description of the Shoals, Rocks, Islands, Beacons, Buoys, Light-houses, with all the recent Improvements. And all the useful tables, viz. Accurate tables of the magnetic courses, and distances from Place to Place, for all the Coasts of Europe, and many of Africa, Asia, America, and the West Indies, with the variations of the needle. A table of the distances by water in Miles from London to the principal Ports in Great Britain, Ireland, the Continents of Europe and America, the East and West Indies &c. Copious tables of Latitudes and Longitudes, from the best and latest Observations. Improved tide tables - and tables of the sun's declination to 1852 - and a table for calculating seamen's wages from one to thirty days

Note sur l'édition et l'histoire bibliographique : Improved and enlarged by many important Additions, from the Observations of M. M'Kenzie, John Diston, M. Downie, Captains Huddart, Thomas, Hepburn, Denham &c. The whole carefully arranged and revised up to this year
