

Acute infectious hemorrhagic fevers and mycotoxicoes in the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics

Type de contenu : Texte

Type de médiation : sans médiation

Type de support : Volume

Titre(s) : Acute infectious hemorrhagic fevers and mycotoxicoes in the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics / D. Carleton Gajdusek

Auteur(s) : Gajdusek, D. Carleton Daniel Carleton (1923-)

Editeur, producteur : Washington : Walter Reed Army Medical Center, 1953

Description matérielle : 1 vol. (VII-140 p.) : illus., maps. ; In-8

Collection : Medical science publication no. 2

Appartient à la collection : Medical science publication no. 2

Classification décimale Dewey : 616.9

Note sur les bibliographies et les index : References bibliographiques

Note sur le contenu : Introduction The Hemorrhagic fevers: Crimean... Omsk... Bukovinian... Uzbekistan.. Far Eastern The mycotoxicoes Alimentary toxic aleukia Poisoning with "drunken bread" Stachybotryotoxycosis Dendrochiotoxycosis Appendix I. Summary of individual reports of hemorrhagic fevers in Soviet Central Asia, Kazakhstan, and Central European Russia Appendix II. Nephrophthia epidemica, a disease of Northern Scandinavia bearing marked similarity to Far Eastern hemorrhagic fever Maps: Distribution of hemorrhagic fevers in the U.S.S.R. Crimea Southwest U.S.S.R Distribution of Far Eastern Hemorrhagic Fever in the Soviet Far East, Manchuria and Korea Nephropathia epidemica in Scandinavia

Sujet - Nom commun : Fièvre
Fièvres hémorragiques