

Talking to the enemy

Type de contenu : Texte

Type de médiation : sans médiation

Type de support : Volume

Titre(s) : Talking to the enemy : violent extremism, sacred values, and what it means to be human / Scott Atran

Auteur(s) : Atran, Scott (1952-....) anthropologue

Editeur, producteur : London : Penguin, 2011, cop. 2010

Description matérielle : 1 vol. (XVI-558 p.) : ill., cartes ; 20 cm

ISBN : 978-0-241-95176-7
0-241-95176-3

EAN : 9780241951767 br.

Classification décimale Dewey : 327.117

Note sur les bibliographies et les index : Réf. bibliogr. p. 491-533. Index

Note sur le contenu : I. The cause. 1. Sulawesi : an anthropologist at work 2. To be human : what is it? 3. The Moors of Mezuak II. The religious rise of civilizations. 4. Creation of the western world 5. Submission : Islam 6. The tides of terror 7. A parallel universe : the 9/11 Hamburg group and the three waves of jihad III. Whither Al Qaeda? Bali and Madrid. 8. Farhin's way 9. The road to Bali : "For all you Christian infidels!" 10. The JI social club 11. The great train bombing : Madrid, March 11, 2004 12. Looking for Al Qaeda 13. The ordinariness of terror IV. The wild east. 14. Prying into Pakistan 15. A question of honor : why the Taliban fight and what to do about it 16. The terror scare : exaggerating threats at home and abroad V. War parties : groups, God, and glory. 17. All in the family : imagined kin, friendship, and teamwork 18. Blood sport : war makes men men 19. Beyond all reason : the Clausewitz delusion VI. "The mother of all problems" : Palestine, the world's symbolic knot. 20. Martyrdom 101 21. Words to end wars : the science of the sacred VII. The divine dream and the collapse of cultures. 22. Bad faith : the new atheist salvation 23. Human rites : natural origins and evolution of religion 24. Our religious world Epilogue : Abe's answer : the question of politics

Sujet - Collectivité : Al-Qaida Hamas Talibans

Sujet - Nom commun : Terroristes -- Psychologie
Terrorisme -- Société

Terrorisme -- Religion
Identité collective
Relations internationales